TWO JAR LOADS ALREADY HERE

Live Saving Apparatus is Now on the Way South, Accompanied By Crew—Complete and Realistic in Every Detail.

The United States exhibit at the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition promises to easily eclipse any previous display by the government at the world's fair. Practically all of the exhibits have already been brought to the grounds and only await the completion of the several buildings so that they may be moved in.

Two carloads of exhibits from the bureau of engraving and printing were brought recently. The first at Philadelphia shipped two carloads last Monday, and Wednesday of life-saving apparatus from New York was sent South in three cars, accompanied by the life-saving crew. The latter exhibit will be a star attraction, complete and realistic in every detail because of the abundance of water. In many instances heretofore the life-saving exhibit has been greatly hampered by an inadequate water supply.

The government exhibits will not be concentrated in one large building as at former expositions. Instead, they will be scattered throughout the grounds and housed in no less than eight different buildings. These buildings are nearly completed, and will be ready for occupancy a week before the gates are thrown open. Assistant Secretary Edwards, of the Treasury Department, who is chairman of the board in charge of the government display has already had headquarters established on the grounds and that all arrangements are being rapidly completed. Every department is to be represented by a fine array of its work.

On April 1 the government is to install a postoffice and telegraph office on the grounds. They will do actual service and at the same time be a part of the exhibit in this department.

The marine hospital will have a unique exhibit. Among other things will be a model of the Fort Stanton, N. M., tuberculosis hospital, showing the methods used to stamp out this disease.

An extensive Philippine exhibit has been arranged for and will prove a great drawing card, according to those who have it in charge. Several of the most prominent tribes, including the warlike Igorots, mention of whom has been frequently seen in the public press, will be attractively shown.

Another feature of the exposition that will attract attention is a series of illuminated tableaux showing the progress of the negro race. An agreement has been entered into between the executive committee designated by the general government to prepare the negro exhibit for the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition and Meta Vaux Warlick, of Philadelphia, a young negro woman who is a sculptor of some repute by which the latter is to furnish those tableaux, illustrating the history of the negro race from the landing of the first boat load of African slaves on the James river, in 1619, to the present day. Planned, by the construction of appropriate models, dramatic groupings, and the use of suitable scenic accessories, to trace in chronological order the progress of the negro people in all the arts of civilization. There will be 15 model groups, each of the basic dimensions of ten feet long and ten feet wide, the figures to be one fourth life size, making in all an exhibit covering more than 1,500 square feet of floor space.

HAVING HARD TIME TO PROVE THAW INSANE

ney Hartridge, "and we supposed he would surely be here." A messenger was sent to summon the doctor, but he could not be found.

"Why has he absented himself?" inquired Mr. McClure, looking from one counsel to another.

No answer was forthcoming and the chairman directed that the doctor be subpoenaed for next Tuesday and at the same time reminded District Attorney Jerome that as he had made the suggestion on the court record as to Thaw's present insanity, the burden of proof in support of that provision rests with him.

Thaw stood it well.

During the executive session it was learned that Thaw carried over nearly every detail of his trial and was asked regarding the testimony offered by various witnesses as to the effect he thought this testimony might have on a jury and the general tenor of the courts rulings on the broader points of law.

On cross-examination, Mr. Jerome sought to question Thaw regarding the letters he wrote to banker J. Dennison Lyon of Pittsburg since the tragedy on the Madison Square Roof Garden. Mr. Jerome said he based his contention as to Thaw's present insanity partly on these letters. The commission ruled that the letters could not be accepted as evidence.

Mr. Jerome argued the point at length, but could not induce the commission to see the matter in the light which he viewed it.

That Mr. Jerome had been in frequent clashes with the commission during the secret session was apparent from the tense feeling which existed after the doors had been thrown open.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF ECZEMA

Affected Hands, Arms and Legs—Endured Terrible Itching and was Unable to Sleep—Would Tear the Bandages to Scratch the Skin—In less than One Week

CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had eczema nearly fifteen years. The affected parts were my hands, arms and legs. They were the worst in the winter time and were always itchy, and I could not keep from scratching them. I had to keep both hands bandaged all the time, and at night I would have to scratch through the bandages as the itching was so severe, and at times I would have to tear everything off my hands to scratch the skin. I could not rest or sleep. I had several physicians treat me but they could not give me a permanent cure, nor even could they stop the itching. After using the Cuticura Soap, one box Cuticura Ointment and two bottles Cuticura Resolvent for about six days the itching had ceased, and now the sores have disappeared, and I never felt better in my life than I do now. Edward Worell, Band 30th, U. S. Infantry, Fort Crook, Nebraska.
