SINGING OF THE CLASS HYMN.

Words and music by Elizabeth R. Tyler, 1913.

Little songsters in Thy gardens
Raise their voices to the sky,
There they grow in strength and beauty,
'Neath Thy ever watchful eye.
Growing stronger, learning ever
That when winter days are nigh,
They will have the strength that's needed
For they to the south must fly.

We have, like the little song-birds,
Spent long years in training here
With the guidance of our teachers,
Who have grown to us most dear.
But now the moment draweth nearer
When we, too, must try our wings,
When no teacher is by to help us
Do the great or smaller things.

So we ask that Thou, our Maker,
As our school days draw toward eve,
Wilt to us thy blessing tender,
And this prayer we pray to Thee,
That Thou'lt watch, protect, and guide us;
When the dark clouds gather fast
May we see the silver lining,
Bravely face the cold, cold blast.

Help us guide the little children,
Fill our hearts with love, we pray.
Without love we know we'll never
Lead them to a better way.
May we bring a little sunshine
To the lives that round us be,
Help us follow in the footsteps
Of Him who taught at Gallilee.
