

THE DIAL

JANUARY 1928

Le Liseur Lithograph	Odilon Redon
Part of Canto XXVII	Ezra Pound	1
Isolated Superiority	T. S. Eliot	4
You Have To Be Careful	Claud Cockburn	8
Washington Square Woodcut	Hanns Skolle
Vsevolod Meyerhold and the Soviet Theatre	A. Bakshy	25
Two Drawings Pen and Wash	Wyndham Lewis
The Stone Bridge of the Rossitsa	Angel Karaliicheff	31
Jonathan Edwards	Gilbert Seldes	37
Two Pencil Drawings	Bertram Hartman
Justice	Howard T. Dimick	47
New Year Day	Kwei Chen	55
Book Reviews:
Van Wyck Brooks in Transition?	Kenneth Burke	56
Civil Disillusionment	Alyse Gregory	60
The Poetry of Concentration	Charles K. Trueblood	63
The English Novel	John Eglinton	66
Briefer Mention		70
The Artist's Wife Bronze	Jacob Epstein
Modern Art	Henry McBride	75
The Theatre	Gilbert Seldes	78
Musical Chronicle	Kenneth Burke	84
Announcement	The Editors	89

VOLUME LXXXIV NUMBER 1

50 cents a copy

THE DIAL

MARIANNE MOORE
Editor

SCOFIELD THAYER
Adviser

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

ALEXANDER BAKSHY was born in the Crimea in 1885, at Kertch—known as Panticapaeum, and capital of the kingdom of the Bosphorus in the time of Pericles—studied engineering in London, and law at The University of St Petersburg. He has contributed to Apollon (St Petersburg), to The Burlington Magazine, The Drama, The Theatre Arts, and other magazines and has translated Vladimir Soloviev's philosophical dialogues: War, Progress and the End of the World. He is the author of various books, among which are The Theatre Unbound and The Path of the Modern Russian Stage and Other Essays.

ANGEL KARALICHEFF was born in Bulgaria. Previous to the communist uprising in 1923 he contributed poems to the communist magazine, The New Day, and is the author of a book of short stories entitled Rye.

HANNS SKOLLE was born in Germany. A portfolio of woodcuts by him was published there in 1920 and his work has been exhibited in Leipzig and Berlin. He was for a short time on the stage, having also "worked in factories, bookshops, scenic studios, and for mural decorators." He has lived since 1923 in New York City and wood-engravings by him are to be seen at The Weyhe Gallery and at The Downtown Gallery.

HOWARD T. DIMICK was born at Marshall, Texas, December 4, 1888, received his education—preparatory and university—in the south, and served with The United States Army during the late war. He is the author of two books: Modern Photoplay Writing, and Photoplay Making; and has written scenarios. He lives in Shreveport, Louisiana, and is a member of The Shreveport Geological Society.

The index to Volume LXXXIII of THE DIAL, which was concluded with the December issue, is now ready for distribution. It has been printed separately and a copy will be mailed free upon request to any subscriber.

VOL. LXXXIV. No. 1 JANUARY 1928

THE DIAL (founded in 1880 by Francis F. Browne) is published monthly at Camden, New Jersey, by The Dial Publishing Company, Inc.—J. S. Watson, Jr., President—Lincoln MacVeagh, Secretary-Treasurer. Entered as second class matter at Post Office, Camden, N. J. Publication Office, 19th and Federal Streets, Camden, N. J. Editorial and Business Offices at 152 West 13th Street, New York, N. Y. Copyright, 1928, by The Dial Publishing Company, Inc.

$5 a year

Foreign Postage 60 cents.

50 cents a copy

Printed in The United States of America