RUSSIANS DEFEAT TWO ARMY CORPS

Official Statement Says Germans at Przasnysz are Driven Back to Frontier

THE RETREAT OF CZAR'S TENTH

Kaiser's Forces Set Themselves the Further Task of Joining Battle With Russian Troops Operating Successfully in the Mlawa Region

Petrograd, March 1, 10.24 P. M., Via London, March 2, 12.52 A. M.—The official communication issued to-night by the war office regarding the progress of the campaign follows:

'We concluded yesterday the operations around Przasnysz where we defeated, and have thrown back to the frontier, not less than two army corps. The Germans, having compelled the retreat of our Tenth Army, set themselves the further task of joining battle with our troops operating successfully in the Mlawa region. Their plan was first to drive back, by a demonstration in force, our left wing in this region, and then apparently by a headlong dash against right wing in the Khorzele (Chorzellen) district, to overthrow our troops in the direction of the Vistula.

Germans Take the Offensive 'On the sixteenth the enemy took the offensive in the Lign-Sierpc-Biszun district, bringing five divisions into the operations. About the middle of February the enemy had reached the Plosnk-Racionz front, but as a result of desperate battles on the sixteenth and eighteenth we stopped his further progress in this section.

About this date the Germans concentrated very great forces between Mlawa and Villenborg (Willenberg) and took the offensive. On the eighteenth we discovered great activity on the part of the German advance guards in the Khorzele district and on the twentieth great enemy forces began an impetuous advance.

'Passing Przasnysz on the east they reached the village of Czuka. Przasnysz formed the extreme point of support of our right wing in this region. Here our infantry brigade was operating and, after meeting the enemy's attack with a defense characterized by vigor and initiative it threw part of its strength into Przasnysz.

The Attack on Przasnysz 'Besides this brigade we had only an unimportant force of cavalry which served as a reserve and impeded the German enveloping movement. After detaching troops for an attack on Przasnysz and on a front comprising Przulzy, Krasnosielo, Podosie, Musti, Vangherky and Kraino Kolakovo, the enemy made his principal effort against the right flank of our troops concentrated in the Mlawa region.

'The sector, eleven versts (about seven miles) from Lysakovo and Khonivoc was simultaneously attacked from the north and the south. This comprised a ridge behind which the German columns had turned Przasnysz and reached Voliverovska, half way between Przasnysz and Ciechanow. At the same time the Germans delivered energetic auxiliary attacks against the whole of our front.

The Germans Enter Przasnysz 'On February 24 the enemy succeeded, after a sanguinary engagement, in entering Przasnysz, but already at 6 o'clock in the morning of the same day we had inaugurated a decisive offensive on an extended front, including Krasnosielo, Vengozinov, Kolakovo and Voliverovska. We pressed the enemy at all points and the 38th German reserve division, which had maintained itself tenaciously at a passage of the river Arjitz, suffered by evening a serious defeat.

'Nevertheless, on the morning of the 25th the enemy had not abandoned his original purpose of delivering a crushing blow to our army and the battle of Voliverovska proved a desperate struggle, with the issue constantly fluctuating. It was only on the evening of the 25th that our troops definitely drove the Germans back from their positions near Przasnysz.

Violent Battles Fought 'On the 26th and 27th violent battles were fought for the possession of the front extending over Dzielino, Klonowo, Przasnysz, Bartniki and Szla.

'On the evening of the 26th our troops entered Przasnysz, but the possession of this place was not consolidated, however, until the following evening, when the Germans commenced a disorderly retreat in the direction of Mlawa and Khorzele. In spite of the fatigue of four days of fighting and marching, our troops pressed the pursuit vigorously, inflicting on the 25th heavy losses on the German rear guards. These operations gave us valuable booty and at least 10,000 prisoners.

Complete Defeat of Germans 'Thus, thanks to our maneuvers, the German operations against our forces in the Mlawa district resulted in a complete defeat for them. On the same day we came into contact with the Germans in other sections, but no collisions were reported. We captured 1,300 prisoners, 15 machine guns and many other guns in the Grodno region.

'In the Carpathians the Austrians attacked in close formation on the Lypkovo-Vorilga front. Their losses in these attacks and as a result of our counter attacks were enormous. 'In Eastern Galicia the enemy assumed the defensive. In the region of Elzopoule our armored train carried out a successful operation. In Bukovina we occupied Sadagora.'

IMPORTANT RULING MADE ON SHIPMENTS OF LIQUOR

U. S. Supreme Court Holds That Laws of States Prohibiting Such Consignments are in Conflict With the Federal Constitution

Washington, March 2.—The Kirmeyer liquor case, one of first importance to the prohibition laws of Kansas, was decided in the United States Supreme Court yesterday against the State.

It was alleged that after receivers had been appointed to oust various wholesale liquor dealers from doing business in Leavenworth, Kan., M. Kirmeyer went across the river into Missouri, established a warehouse there and continued to deliver beer in Kansas. The Kansas Supreme Court held that his removal was a mere device to evade the Kansas liquor law and that the trade was not interstate commerce 'in good faith.'

The United States Supreme Court yesterday held that Kirmeyer was entitled, under a previous decision of the court, to protection for his trade as interstate commerce and dismissed an injunction issued by the Kansas Supreme Court.

Justice McReynolds stated in the opinion that the Kirmeyer case arose before the passage of the Webb-Kenyon law, prohibiting shipments from wet to dry territory and that neither its construction nor application was involved or would be passed upon. Advocates of the Webb-Kenyon law claim that measure would apply to such cases now.

Justice McReynolds said decisions of the Supreme Court precluded further discussion of the following facts: 'Beer is a recognized article of commerce. The right to send it from one State to another, and the act of doing so, are interstate commerce, the regulation thereof has been committed to Congress; and a State law which denies such right or substantially interferes with or hampers the same is in conflict with the Constitution of the United States. Transportation is not complete until delivery to the consignee or the expiration of a reasonable time thereafter and prior thereto the provisions of the Wilson act of 1890 have no application.'

The Justice did not undertake to say whether the Webb-Kenyon law was effective to change those propositions.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Trial of Ray Seiders Last on Criminal Court List

Lebanon, March 2.—The regular March term of Criminal Court opened here yesterday. The trial of Ray Seiders, who is charged with the murder of the late John W. Mills, is the last case for trial, and is scheduled for to-morrow.

Seiders is charged with having shot Mills, a foreman of the Smet-Solvay Company's coke plants at North Lebanon, while the latter was on his way to work one evening in December last. Several days later, Mills died at the Lebanon Sanatorium. Before his death, however, Mills identified Seiders as the man who robbed and shot him.

U. S. Army Bugler Gets Married Lebanon, March 2.—John Reed, a bugler in the United States Army, stationed at Fort Slocum, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, of Newmstown, and Miss Carrie Strickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Strickler, of Womelsdorf, were married last evening by a Reading clergyman. After the wedding the couple left for New York, where they will reside. Mr. Reed is a cigar-maker by occupation. This is his second enlistment in the United States Army service.

Thurston, the Magician Thurston, who is the attraction at the Majestic to-day and to-morrow with daily matinee, has an entertainment rare and thrilling. The day of harem-scarum magicians is past. The public taste has dried against the incompetent slight of hand shufflers and the sumbling apparatus manipulators who flooded the stage a decade ago. It has now resolved itself to where a worker in magic must be marvelous or absent. Thurston is marvelous. His finesse, his personality and his flawless performance of the visually impossible, make him highly impressive and turn his show into broad channels of diversion. He is witty, tasteful and unbelievably deft. He is the logical and entirely competent successor of Herrmann and the great Kellar, who in their turns respectfully held the center of the world's stage in performing mysteries.—Adv.

'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine' 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine,' which appears at the Majestic Thursday, is the story of big humane, big hearts and big purposes, beyond all the futile spirit of feudalism there is the blue in the skies canyoning the lonely rugged trees; the sweet spirit of June, and the iron-willed, masterful Judd. A most elaborate production has been given Eugene Walter's dramatization of John Fox, Jr.'s widely read book, and those who love June in the romance will be more than charmed with Miss Dixie Compton's delightful presentation of the mountain heroine, who has already become enshrined in the hearts of a million book lovers.—Adv.

'Damaged Goods' That the lessons taught in 'Damaged Goods,' soon to be seen in this city, stir auditors to immediate action was proved in the case of a Pacific Coast Congressman who saw the guest performance given in Washington, D. C., last spring. The play, which is a vivid lesson in behalf of a clearer understanding of the fundamental facts of life, and of the evils which befall those guilty of excess, also sets forth the necessity for a feeling of personal responsibility for the welfare of mankind. The lesson was brought so clearly home to this Congressman that immediately after the performance he walked to the telegraph office which is in the same block with the National Theatre, and sent a telegram to his managing editor of the paper which he owns in a Western State. He sent this telegram: 'I have just seen a remarkable play called 'Damaged Goods' and I am so much impressed by the facts which it sets forth that I hereby instruct you to cancel all advertising contracts with quack doctors.'—Adv.

At the Orpheum March came in pretty mild most everywhere but at the Orpheum. There he made considerable stir by leaving an excellent vaudeville show, one of the season's best, 'The Fashion Shop' with new wrinkles in gowns to delight the ladies, and which by the way, were equally admired by the men. This is certainly a novelty in the way of a musical comedy for local vaudeville devotees. Pretty gowns in a musical comedy have been seen here before, but the idea of making the costume on the living figure during the action of the piece is entirely new. The gowns are all beauteous and they are draped and pinned here and there, forming a gorgeous gown. One is made before the audience is through admiring the previous one, and all during the gown making process there is any amount of good comedy and good singing. The staging is delightful and the playlet is as novel as it is entertaining. A delightful comedy with dashes of pathos entitled 'Twenty Old Years,' was splendidly enacted by Harry Beresford and company, and is of much importance on this bill also. The playlet is quaintly domestic in theme and beautifully staged. Some splendid comedy turns, and as many of clever variety, round out a bill of unusual excellence and one that is deserving of capacity audiences all week.—Adv.

At the Colonial If there is a confirmed woman hater in Harrisburg to-day it is Bill Blithers, who trembles in anger when he hears a woman's voice, and who is making the atreogers laugh themselves tired at the Colonial during the first half of the week. This excellent comedy playlet is a mirth ringer of the first water and it is proving the same big scream at the Colonial that it did when it was in Harrisburg before. Betty, the educated monkey, who does everything but talk, is also a rare treat of the Colonial's new show. Two blackface comedians and a dainty dancing violiniste complete the vaudeville roster.—Adv.

'The Man From Home,' as shown at this theatre to-day, is one of the most pleasing and at the same time most realistic film plays shown on the screen to-day. Adv.

The complete solution of the greatest mystery ever shown in moving pictures and also the winner of the $10,000 prize will be positively be shown. 'The Rainy Day,' two reel Lubin drama, featuring Ormi Hawley and Earl Metcalfe, and a famous George Ade comedy fable, 'The Cold Gray Dawn of the Morning After,' completes the program.—Adv.

CHICAGO MAYOR INSINCERE

Women Suffrage Leaders Say Harrison Disregarded Their Cause

An interesting side light on the defeat of Mayor Harrison by the women voters at the Chicago primaries was furnished here to-day by Miss Harriet Vittum, a prominent suffragist and social worker of Chicago. Miss Vittum, who came east recently for a conference with the suffrage leaders of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, said that none of the newspaper dispatches from Chicago had given what she considered to be the real reason for Mayor Harrison's defeat. 'In the first place,' she said, 'the newspaper reports have all tended to create the impression that the women of Chicago voted against a man who was both a reformer and a good suffragist. As a matter of fact, at heart Carter Harrison is neither. To be sure, he espoused suffrage as soon as it was adopted in Illinois, but the great majority of the women of Chicago have always felt that he did it as a matter of political expediency. Moreover, it was not until after suffrage had been granted to the women of Chicago that he made any effort to solve either the garbage disposal or the red light district problems, or take any of the other steps that have won him in certain quarters the title of reformer. Notwithstanding the fact that he was willing to appoint police women to protect the morals of young girls in the Chicago dance halls until the suffragists of the city forced the issue upon him. The result is, that the women of Chicago have never considered him either a sincere reformer or a sincere suffragist, and the primaries this year gave them their first opportunity to register their judgment upon him. They seized it by defeating him. In conclusion, Miss Vittum said that some interesting news concerning the political situation in Chicago may be expected soon. She intimated that the women voters there are not entirely satisfied with the regular party candidates for the mayoralty, and that they may put up an independent candidate.

CAN'T BE SENTENCED TO NAVY

Darby, Pa., March 2.—Former sailors, marines, regular army men and veterans of the Spanish-American war in Darby, Colwyn, Collingdale and vicinity, are indignant at the action of Justice of the Peace Baxter, of Darby, in releasing Fred. The army and navy veterans say that these branches are not reformatories; that they are not a haven for thieves and crooks, and that no one who has ever been convicted of any crime is eligible to enlist.
