1,481 Kinds of Jobs Open to Crippled Soldiers

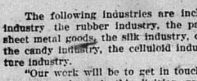

RECENT surveys by the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men have brought out that the field open for re-employment of such men in industrial life is much wider than probably is generally supposed. Investigations of 642 factories since January 1 last have revealed 1,203 kinds of jobs open to leg cripples and 278 open to arm cripples. Attention was given sanitary conditions and precautions for safety.

The report describes in detail the processes involved in each casualty investigation; the advantages and disadvantages of each for arm and leg cripples, respectively; the wages paid; the organization of the trade, and the provisions for the safety of workers.

The following industries are included: The piano industry, the shoe industry, steel metal goods, the silk industry, cigar, furniture, drugs and chemicals, the candy industry, the celluloid industry, optical goods, and the motion picture industry.

"Our work will be to get in touch with every disabled soldier and sailor that returns home in this division, get him into profitable occupation and see that he makes good there," said a vocational officer of one of the fifteen divisions.

"If artificial limbs or other orthopedic or mechanical appliances are needed, the government will supply them free of charge."

THIS IS BETTER THAN BEING A DEPENDENT

The principle of it sounds well enough, but are not those zealous women misdirecting their attention and misapplying their bonfire? Whether it be said to the president's credit or discredit, it seems to be the suffragists' best friend in Washington. It would be less incomprehensible if they were to burn the Congressional Record or to turn the

OPERATE ARSENAL GROUP MEETINGS FOUR DAYS WEEK WILL BE HELD

The appeals made to Washington by Gov. McCall and Mayor Peters in behalf of the employees of the Watertown Arsenal, 1000 of whom will be laid off today, has resulted in the establishment of a four-day working week at the arsenal in order to prevent additional discharges. Friday and Saturday have been named as non-work days. The order goes into effect today.

The new arrangement does not affect the 1000 men and women who have already received notice that their services will no longer be required.

URGES PEOPLE TO HOLD LIBERTY BONDS

Washington, Dec. 20—Carter Glass, in assuming the office of Secretary of the Treasury, urges the American people to retain their Liberty bonds and not sell them unless conditions make it absolutely necessary. Secretary Glass in his statement declares that the proceeds of the Fourth Liberty Loan, so far received, have all been spent and that the remaining instalments will be needed.

PRESENT AT BIG DEMONSTRATION

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Miss Maud Younger of California and Mrs. Bennett. Miss Younger told of the reason for the demonstration. That no satisfaction could be had from senators, who said that nothing could be done. They had done all they could. The President had gone and had left no instructions on the matter, and it was not on the program. This was after many efforts and much time spent in trying to get speech with the senators.

Mrs. Vida Milholland, sister of Iphigene Milholland who died a martyr to this cause, sang at the mass meeting and also at the reception in the evening. The pageant of nations, in which were represented those countries who have entrenched their women since the beginning of the war, was a beautiful feature of the mass meeting; the parade wound through the aisles, making a varicolored panorama with banners and streamers. The national airs of the various countries were played as the pageant moved through the aisles and finally came to rest on the platform behind the speakers. Mrs. Tolson Bennett made the collection speech and $3,000 was collected, Massachusetts giving $1000.

In the evening of Sunday a reception was held at the national centers where the delegates had an opportunity to meet one another. Secretary Miss Collins had the interesting experience of meeting by chance a relative of Mrs. L. R. Henderson of Framingham, who had travelled from Kansas to attend this convention. She confessed to 49 years of age.

A meeting was held on Monday morning when the proceedings for the day were explained and the reason for holding the President responsible. It was of no use to see the senators, they had found; all said they could do nothing. The women felt that the responsibility was with President Wilson, and since he had shown so little interest in democracy at home, his speeches were empty, and they would burn them of protest.

The line formed and left the headquarters at 4:30 p. m. on Monday. The state chairman led, bearing torches. The delegates followed the banners of their respective states, carrying small banners of the white, yellow and purple. From the headquarters the line marched to Lafayette square, where the burning took place. Each state chairman, as she set the fire with her torch, made a brief speech. Miss Vida Milholland sang during the ceremony. In the whole affair perfect police protection was furnished the delegates. Major Callahan, police commissioner, had them granted a special permit, and there was no disorder.

There were 12 women from Massachusetts in the line. The state banner was carried by Mrs. Henderson of Weymouth former state chairman. Miss Collins left Washington immediately after the ceremony at 5:45 and arrived home the next morning.

Imreza Borgia, a four-year-old horse, worth $5 pounds up, ran to a world's record, the four-mile course at Oakland, California, on May 20, 1918, in California and 1:06.

ROUSES STORM IN CONGRESS

"It is interesting to have disclosed the exact source of this alleged movement for the destruction of the surrendered German fleet and for this reason the resolution is directed to the Acting Secretary of State."

"Clearly, the ships of the German Navy are the property of the victor Nations. It is interesting to know under what authority the delegates to the peace conference may assume the right to be acting in proposing the destruction of the property of the United States."

"The ships would be apportioned among the Nations which have participated in the proportion of their commerce."

"The German Naval vessels are of modern type, particularly the submarines, which undoubtedly are of the very latest type," in most cases. But they are all modern warships, and the suggestion of their being sunk is one of a childish and idle waste of highly valuable property."

Other Senators' Views
"Naturally, in the apportionment of the surrendered fleet, England would get the lion's share," but France and Italy and also the United States have a property right in this fleet."

"It is unbelievable," said Senator Harding.

"The proposition is ridiculous," said Senator Penrose. "I cannot believe the President ever approved it. In my opinion a plan of this kind could not have been authorized by any responsible official."

"I am utterly opposed to such a proposition," said Senator Borah. "I do not believe the President ever proposed it. In my opinion a plan of this kind could not have been authorized by any responsible official."

BY SUDDEN END OF WAR

It is too little known in Framingham. An earlier piece, done by Mrs. Fuller at the President's request, and on a similar theme, was on exhibition at the rooms of the Woman's Peace Party in Boston, some time ago, and was described in The News.
